PEARSON FAVORS PUTTING MILL HERE

El Paso will get the auxiliary plants of the Madera Lumber company if suitable locations can be obtained at suitable prices-a lumber finishing plant and a factory for the making of wrapping papers and newspaper. As between El Paso and Juarez, Dr. F. S. Pearson's personal preference favers El Paso and El Paso will get them if locations can be obtained at reasonable prices.

"I personally favor El Paso as the location of the plants, but of course we will be guided in tell matter by our own interests," said Dr. Pearson at the St. Regis Friday morning. "It is a matter, however, that will require a good deal of investigation and study and I am not prepared to make any definite statement regarding the aux-Iliary plants. Of course the prime consideration will be transportation."

To Know in a Month. "In a month's time," said the capitalist, "I think I will know what we will do and where the plants will be located, and until that time I will not be able to give out any definite in-formation."

Regarding the duty on wood pulp and manufactured paper fer print purposes, Dr. Pearson said that the question would not affect the location of the sites for the plants. "There is no duty on wood pulp and the duty on newspaper, so that would not enter into the question of location," he said.

Dr. Pearson stated that it was not the intention of the Madera company, which is the largest lumber interest in the republic of Mexico, to manufacture the higher grade of paper and that the local plant would be limited to wrapping paper and newspaper. The lumber owned by the Madore company, standing, is said to be enough to run the twin lumber mills of the company at Madera in full capacity for the next 19 years.

Return Here Thursday. Dr. Pearson and his party returned to Juarez Thursday evening from a trip of inspection over the Mexico Northwestern, owned by the Pearson interests, and to the town of Pearson, which is named after the Canadian capitalist. The work of construction on the extension to connect Pearson with Madera, the site of the big lumber mills, is being pushed, both railway con-struction work and the tunnel work. The forces are working from both ends

Dr. Pearson and the other members of the party who are connected with the Madera company and the Mexico Northwestern, came over to El Paso early Friday morning, and in company with real estate agents, visited a number of probable sites for the lumber products plants. The party also inspected sites in Juarez.

Many in Party. Friday evening the Pearson party will leave over the Mexican National railways for Chihuahua and will go from there to Madera to inspect the properties of the Pearson syndicate They will return to El Paso early next week en route to New York. In the party are Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Pearson and daughter, Miss Natalie Pearson, and Miss Pearson's guest, Miss Josephine Blaine, of New York; C. Ferris, general manager of the Mexico Northwestern at Chihuahua; Hiram C. Smith, general manager of the Madera company: G. C. The Constitution Will Stand Without Change, It Appears-To Finish Soon.

PRESENT CONGRESS CAN ACT ON WORK

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 11 .- Disregarding the advice of former president Roosevelt to make the constitution from the Spanisa-American war, 12 easily amendable, the New Mexico constitutional convention adopted an article which will make it extremely difficult to amend the document, will take a two-thirds vote of each house of the legislature in a regular session to propose an amendment and a majority vote of the people amounting to at least 40 percent of the entire electorate to ratify such proposal. It will take two legislatures at regular session and a majority vote of the electorate as well as a majority in at least one-half of the countles to call a constitutional convention to revise the constitution.

An effort will be made to adjourn the convention on Nov. 19, as the Republican leaders desire the present congress to pass on the constitution. Taxation Up Now.

The convention today wrestled with the knottiest problem that has been before it thus far-the subject of taxation-and it probably will be midnight before it finishes the article.

It is proposed to leave only the articles on apportionment, miscellaueous provisions and revisions for next week, so as to make sure of adjourn-ment by Saturday, Nov. 19. No Park Pitmans There.

Last evening the convention adopted he article on counties and municipalities, slashing the committee report to pieces. Bursum made the latter amendment for the purpose, as one delegate put it, of smashing rings of county officials organized to work for their own succession to office.
